“You can find some of these individual features in other software, but we like to have everything integrated. It just makes everything that much more productive.”

O2 Head Office, Slough, United Kingdom

Challenges?

- Email was not integrated with project delivery workflows.
- File sharing was hampered by email file size limitations and FTP set-up and security drawbacks, and did not track who had downloaded what, when.
- Team members had to switch back and forth between multiple applications in the course of taking snapshots of screen, opening documents, marking up files and other project delivery workflows.

Results?

- All the steps in managing project information are tied together.
- Workflows are more fluid.
- Documents may be viewed, redlined and emailed from one simple interface.
