“We can find answers to questions quickly – even in emails or drawings generated by others – and often while the client is still on the phone.”

One World Trade Center, New York City

Challenges?

- Clients and team members expect prompt answers to questions.
- People used to spend up to 20% of their time just looking for information.

Results?

- Teams can search, sort and filter any project's emails, specs or drawings by keywords.
- Engineers use the software to find documented instructions that resolve disputes.
- Project managers and engineers can now locate answers to questions while still on the phone.
